Problem: scattered & siloed marketing data

- Cross-channel analysis and reporting has become increasingly difficult and an inefficient process that is prone to human error.
- Building & maintaining custom data pipelines or complicated DIY data hacks has become laborious and expensive.

Solution: connect & automate with ease

Supermetrics automates data transfers from more than 70 marketing data sources to tools like Google Sheets, Google Data Studio, Excel, data warehouses and various business intelligence tools. Marketers can easily and without advanced technical skills analyse and report unified data in their favorite tools.

Why Supermetrics

High quality connectors

Our data connectors allow you to pull all the metrics and dimensions you need from the most popular marketing platforms. Your get clean, unsampled data ready for storage, analysis, visualization, and reporting.

Secure data transfers

We never store your data in our systems. In fact, all we do is move it. To make sure that no one can access your data during the transfer, we encrypt it at the source and decrypt it at the destination using tokens for authentication.

Not another platform

Instead of forcing your to master yet another platform, Supermetrics simply moves data between the marketing channels and data tools you already know and love. You choose the platforms, we'll bring the data.

Power of data at everyone's fingertips

"We believe that everyone should be able to crunch data and discover insights independently and without advanced technical skills"

Supermetrics is leading the way in building user-friendly data tools everyone can use. Advanced technical skills are not required and you can get data flowing with just a few clicks.

We empower a whole new generation of data-curious marketers and citizen data scientists by giving them direct access to data in tools they love and are familiar with.

Next: Bringing data warehousing to marketers

Marketing teams are struggling with the sheer amount of data they need to work with. Adding a data warehouse into the workflow helps them:

- Work with large data sets without friction
- store and analyse historical data efficiently
- Break the final data silos and unify marketing data with other business data.

We are currently investing heavily on expanding our data warehouse product offering and making a Marketing Data Warehouse accessible and easy to use for marketers and analysts.
