"Giraffe360 is the best solution. It is the first product that does all the needed presentation in one take - floor plan, 360 tour and photos. We don't have to hire different people to do the job and can keep the costs low.

Real estate companies are struggling to digitise properties and create their digital twins

Real estate companies need to create digital twins* in order to manage proprieties, develop and operate smart buildings, and move property sales and rentals online.
Without digital twins real estate companies are loosing on sales, market share and efficiency.

They have tried and failed to find cost-effective tools to build high quality content

Use smartphones

Low quality

Users can tell the difference, hurting leads

Train team with SLRs, lasers and 3D tools

Inconsistent

Hard to train average person to the level of skill required to build virtual experiences

Hire service providers

Expensive and time consuming

Virtual content is 3x more expensive than traditional photography and takes on average 48h to schedule service

Build in-house service team

Non-scalable

Expensive, requires multiple staff to manage all the different aspects of virtual experience creation

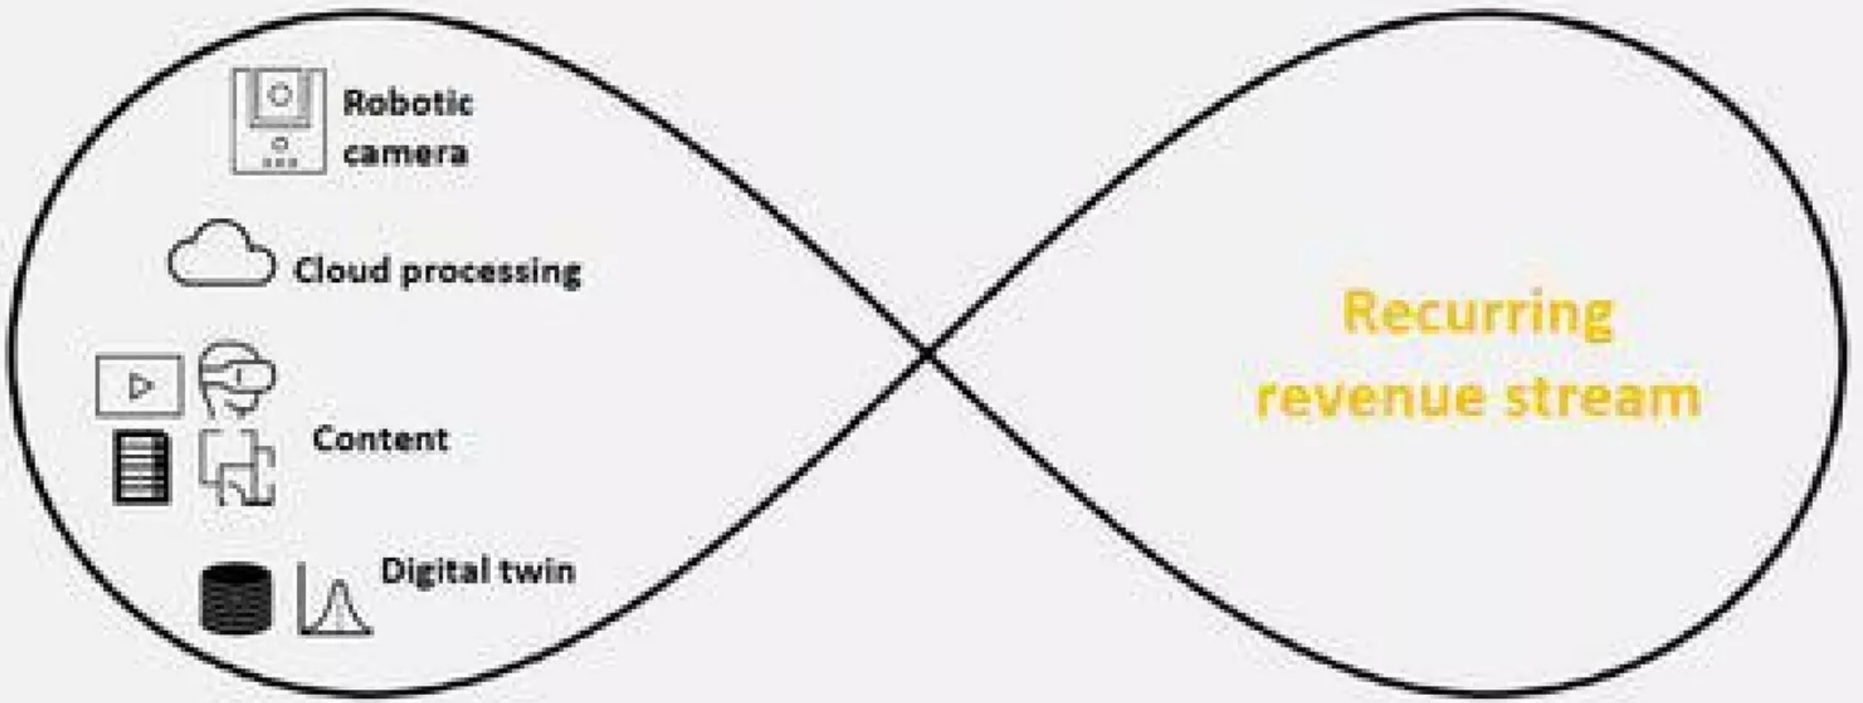

Solution

Game-changing push-of-the-button technology for high-quality property documentation

Real estate company employee pushes the button and creates various ready-to-use content formats and data sets which may be distributed over all required platforms from own internal systems and home page to property portals and aggregators.

Subscription-based business model

Fixed subscription fee per month. Subscription includes a robotic camera, project processing in cloud and all digital content. Additional fee applies to added-value services such as data analytics.
