Hi there

Common Room brings organizations closer to their communities

Build better products, deepen relationships,and grow faster

Backdrop

The way software is built and distributed has fundamentally changed.

IT and executives make all company purchasing decisions		Tech-savvy users find, adopt, and share the best solutions
Sales reps and steak dinners		Peer recommendations, try before you buy, and self-serve
Reign of old school sales-led and marketing-led business models		Rise of product-led growth with relentless focus on customers
Product roadmaps are reverse-engineered from market trends		Product teams build better products through direct access to community

Challenge

Community is the answer—but tools haven’t kept up.

Lack of visibility

Data about people is siloed across external engagement platforms (both owned and open) and internal systems and teams. There is no single system of record and community journey datastore.

Lack of action

There’s no shared system of action for identifying, tracking, and nurturing important voices. Finding, routing, and replying to product users is completely manual and done in complicated spreadsheets or not at all.

Lack of measurement

It’s difficult to measure the ROI of community relationships, including the impact of customer champions on revenue or advocacy and evangelism programs on marketing goals like awareness and reach.

Community isn’t a place.
It’s how.

Solution

Common Room is the community intelligence platform that helps you build better products, deepen relationships, and grow faster.

Solution

Who are we built for?

We are for community leaders and developer advocates first—the people charged with cultivating your community. Common Room's proactive intelligence and action layer reduces manual work.

We are built for teams. Community is a team sport. From marketing, to customer support, to sales, and RevOps, we bring your entire organization closer to your community.

We help your organization lead with community. Your community is your lifeblood. We help you grow and show its impact.

Day in the life

Your community and developer advocacy teams have a lot going on.

Identify and welcome new community members

Stay on top of conversations, questions, and sentiment

Identify, segment, and nurture champions

Find and amplify member-generated content

Write educational content and build presentations

Recruit and track members for programs: CFP speakers, CABs

Capture and circulate product feedback and bugs

Measure community health and business impact

Common Room

Building is hard. Measuring business value is even harder.
Common Room supports you through all stages of your community's growth.

Activating the business

- Connecting community membership to accounts, product activation, and ARR
- Measuring attribution and customer journey

Facilitating growth and sustained engagement

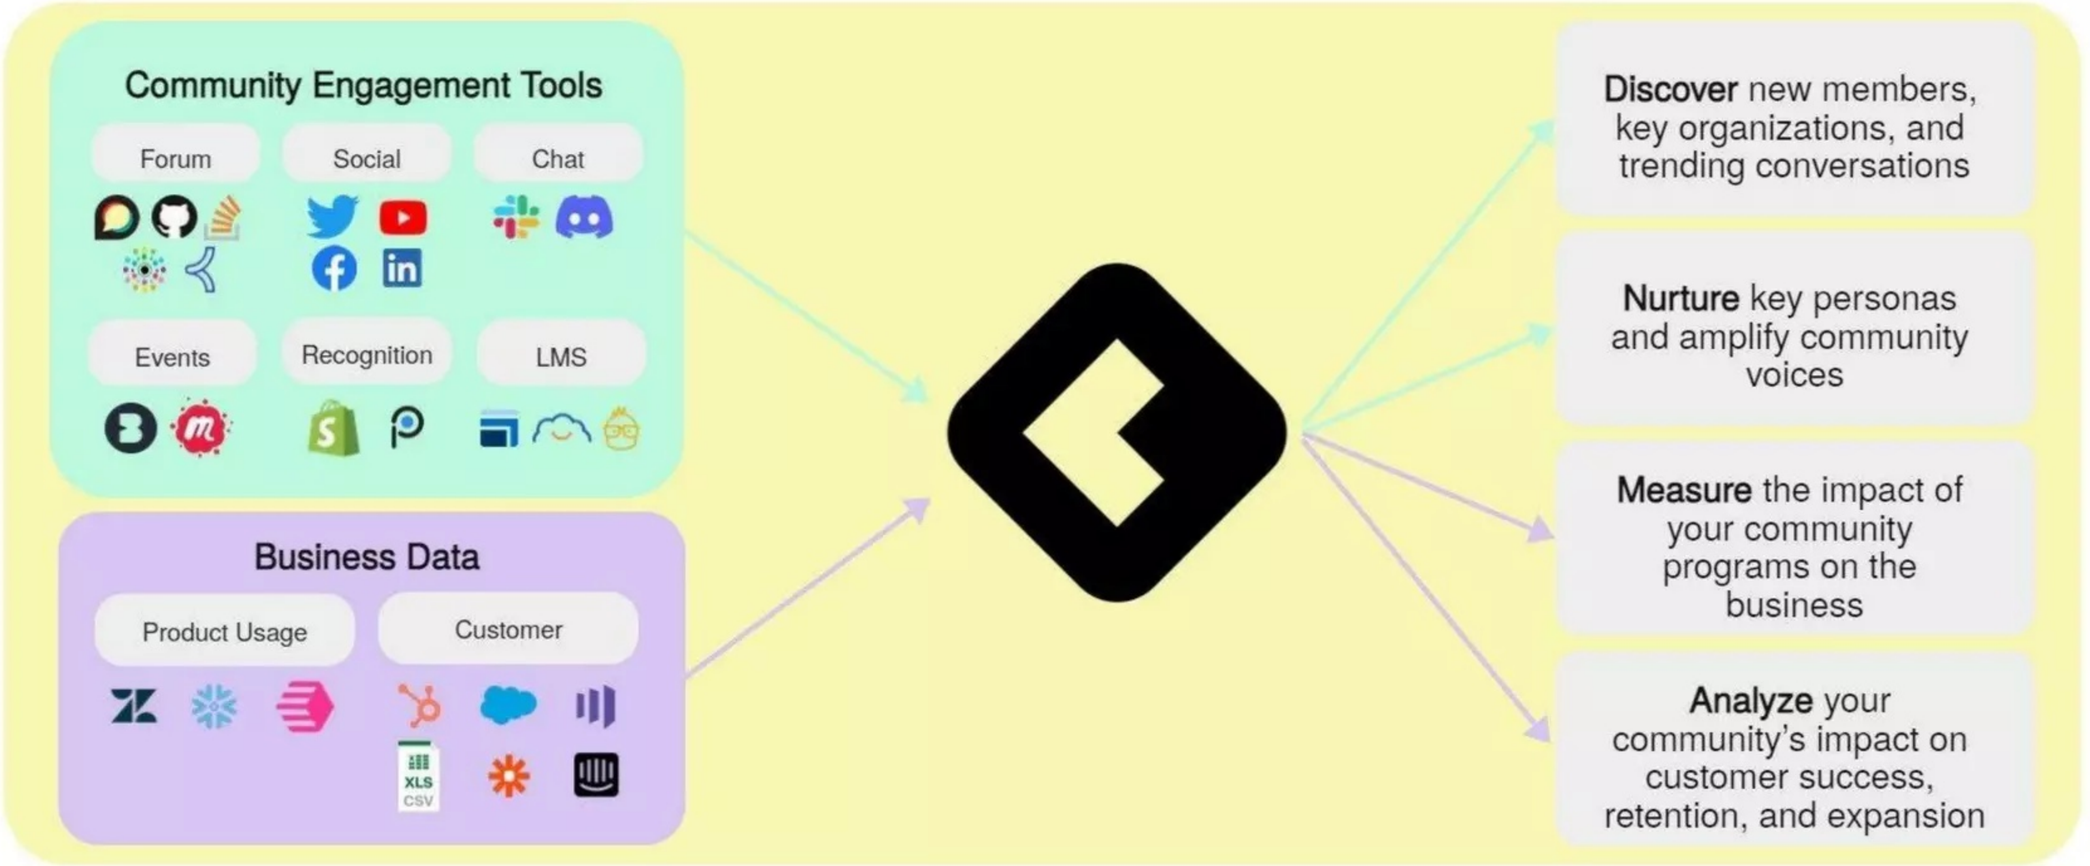

- Programs: Ambassador, regional user groups, community moderators, advisory boards, and recognition
- Measuring health—responsiveness, cohorts, sentiment, and channels—and sharing influence anecdotes

Seeding your community

- New channels, recruiting members, driving the right types conversations
- Measuring growth—members, activities, and engagement—and sharing anecdotes

Common Room

Common Room brings together community engagement, product usage, and customer data into a single place, uses intelligence to surface insights from across your community, and provides tools to act on those insights.

Customers

Today’s fastest growing companies choose Common Room.

HubSpot

SUPERCONDUCTIVE

webflow

asana

imply

dbt Labs

Temporal

styra

Grafana Labs

Gremlin

Dovetail

MOOV

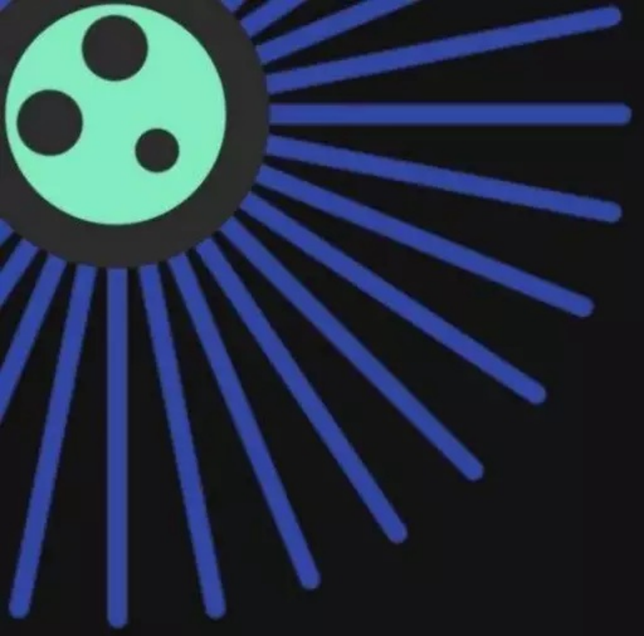

Customers

“Common Room empowers us to take action in a very direct way that clearly ladders up to the success of our business, and most importantly to the success of our customers.”

Joshua Zerkel

Head of Global Engagement Marketing, Asana

Common Room

www.commonroom.io/signup

