Online depression and anxiety care will soon be the norm.

TODAY
Massively underserved need

- Healthcare is a local market served by large health systems
- Most depression/anxiety is treated in primary care by busy generalists
- < 50% of people with depression get any care, < 25% get quality care

WHAT'S CHANGING
Rapid adoption of telemedicine

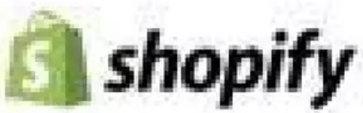

- National market for services allows healthcare consumers to select the best solution for their need
- 1.0 was primary and urgent care (1 and done), 2.0 will be specialized solutions for chronic conditions
- Consumers quickly starting to prefer care online

THE FUTURE
80% of mental healthcare online

- Specialized, fully vertical solutions meeting specific customer needs
- Quality, not access, becomes the basis of competition
- Payers will overhaul BH services
- $100Bn+ annual opportunity for depression and anxiety care.

IT'S JUST LIKE

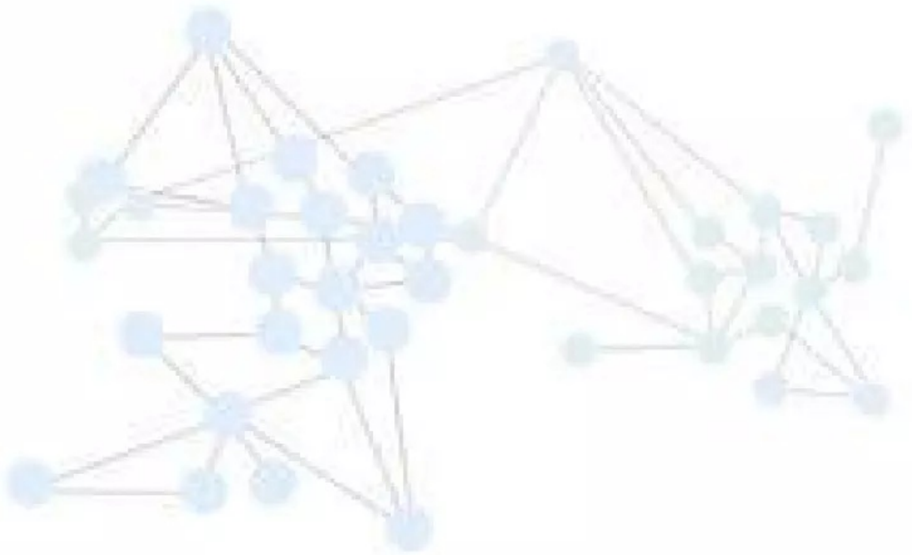

Our big insight

Depression and anxiety are highly heterogeneous (despite being treated as cookie cutter today).

Understanding individual presentation and matching unique patient needs to the most effective treatment can deliver better outcomes.

And in this market, outcomes are what truly matter.

Brightside offers evidence-based, cost-effective care for high complexity and high severity depression and anxiety.
